Dexter cattle are the smallest breed of cattle in America. They are a tri-purpose animal producing both delicious meat and quality milk. Dexters were first introduced to the United States in the early 1900's; imported from England. They require less feed than other breeds while producing high quality fine-grained meat, with light marbling, and excellent flavor. Dexters are known for their gentle demeanor, ease of calving and good mothering. A Dexter bull may be bred to another breed producing a quality cross and is an excellent choice for first calf heifers.

The MDBA is a non-registry association that was created for the purpose of promoting the Dexter Cattle breed and expanding the breeder population. Its focus is to introduce the public to quality Dexter Cattle.
